The Brief

To make an interesting, child-friendly garden at this 1930s 'semi' with places to sit, eat, and play with their toddler twins and daughter who loves to dance. They also wanted an outdoor kitchen area, a small lawn and somewhere to stargaze at night.

The Design

It now features a stage, set with lights that flash to music and a pergola for shelter. There is space to cook and eat and a terrace with built-in seats outside the dining room. The round lawn is set with metal 'button' stepping stones. A bespoke circular pod with clear perspex roofing, has a treadplate floor, seats and bright cushions.
