The Brief

To change and improve the existing slopes, paving and steps to make the garden more useable. The clients wanted a modern, practical space that provided places to sit, play, eat or just relax with their teenage boys. The planting was to be mostly evergreen shrubs and interesting foliage plants.

The Design

Natural stone paths and paving link a large dining area right outside the kitchen of this 1970s family home, with a sunny spot for a bench and a small private corner of lawn. Level areas and large raised beds have been created with timber sleepers. Mature hardy exotic plants give instant effect.
