The Brief

To make a small tapering garden behind a modern house more interesting and private. The clients wanted a pond, some height for climbing plants and no lawn. They wanted 'jungly' planting that was easy to look after.

The Design

A curved path under a square pergola and a pond with a natural slate waterfall surrounded by damp loving plants. There is new fencing and the existing shed was painted. The planting includes dark colours and architectural foliage. There is now a sense of mystery and a pretty view from the small terrace and conservatory.
